INSURGENTS

Now Advancing Upon City of Havana to Capture
Pres. Palma

GREAT EXCITEMENT PREVAILS

FIGHTING IN PROGRESS IN OTHER PARTS OF CUBA TODAY

Palma's Retirement From Office
And New Elections Only:
Will Bring Peace.

(Bulletin.)

Havana, Sept. 8.—The insurgents are advancing upon this city. An attack upon the outskirts is already reported and the greatest excitement prevails. It is believed that the rebels aim to capture President Palma and the government authorities have been thrown into a state of panic.

ATTACK ON CIENFUEGOS.

Cienfuegos, Cuba, Sept. 8.—Colonel Guzman, insurgent leader in this province, is reported to have broken the armistice to which he agreed and to be moving on this city. Loyal volunteers have deserted to his standard. An attack on Cienfuegos is momentarily expected.

FIGHTING IN PROGRESS.

Havana, Sept. 8.—Col. Avalo's forces of loyal troops are reported surrounded in Pinar del Rio city and the rebels have attacked the town. Communication by telegraph is cut but reports reaching the city today say bitter street fighting between the loyalists and insurgents is now in progress.

PALMA MUST RETIRE.

Havana, Sept. 8.—Only President Palma's retirement from office and the holding of new elections through out Cuba will bring peace to the country. This is the reply of General Pino Guerra, commander of the insurgents in Pinar del Rio province to the overtures made to him for ten days armistice in which the veterans association hoped to be able to arrange for a permanent peace.

Guerra's answer to the peace overtures was followed by quick action. Two railroad bridges on the Western railway near Pinar del Rio were blown up by the insurgent leader, who sent word to the manager of the road that he intended to destroy all the culverts along the line. The telegraph operators reported last night that dynamite explosions were heard in the direction of Las Ovas, indicating that Guerra was putting his threat into execution.

PUNCH CARTOONS THE PRESIDENT

"I Cannot Tell a Lie," He is Made to Say by the Artist.

New York, Sept. 8.—A London cable says:

Punch this week, in a full page cartoon, shows "Teddy" Roosevelt in cowboy costume, sleeves rolled up, standing hatchet in hand, by a great tree which represents the English language.

Father Time, examining the tree with a powerful magnifying glass, observes a slight incision in the trunk. "Who's been trying to cut down this tree?" he asks.

"Father," answers Teddy, "I cannot tell a lie. I did it with my little ax."

To this Father Time replies, "Ah, well, boys will be boys."

"FLASHLIGHT"

Invited Five Fire Engine Companies, Salvage Corps, a Squad of Police and a Howling Mob.

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 8.—A "quiet" wedding Thursday night, that of J. C. Foster and Mrs. Sarah E. Null, who had been sweethearts when children in their old home, Delaware, O., was attended by five fire engine companies, two truck companies, the salvage corps, a squad of police and a howling mob that blocked the Eightteenth street trolley cars. A "flashlight" photograph of the bride and groom caused the turning in of a fire alarm that summoned the uninvited guests.

Only two of the bride's neighbors had been invited. Even families living up stairs, the bride occupying only the down stairs floor of a three story house, knew nothing of the festivities.

When the photographer ignited the big charge of magnesium powder at 9 o'clock the flash was seen by families keeping cool on verandas all around, and the dense clouds of smoke led them to believe that an explosion had happened and that a serious fire was in progress.

"I was engaged to Mr. Foster 15 years ago in Delaware, Ohio," said the bride. "But I saw him talking with another girl and we quarreled. I married Mr. Null and came to St. Louis to live. Mr. Foster went to Michigan and remained a bachelor. Recently I got a divorce from Null and my folks brought Mr. Foster and me together again. We shall live at Cadillac, Michigan."

FOXY GIRLS

Smile at the Advances of Masher and Lead the Men Into a Police Sergeant's Arms.

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 8.—Miss Lemon Cross, aged 17 years, and a girl friend were walking on the street when they were accosted by two men. According to Miss Cross she was greatly frightened, but the thought struck her that she should lead the masher to the police station. She and her friend smiled at the men and led the way from Delaware street to the police station. There the girls ran in, told the sergeant that two men had insulted them, and asked him to make arrests. He jailed Harry Smith and John Lyons, and they were fined.

HUGGING

His Victim With One Arm, the Murderer Drew a Knife Across the Ferryman's Throat.

Point Pleasant, W. Va., Sept. 8.—Fred Doss, proprietor of the ferry boat here, was murdered yesterday afternoon. The murderer, said to be a man named Clark, escaped.

Doss was standing near his boat at the landing when Clark, it is alleged, seized him about the shoulders with one arm and with the free hand drew a knife across the ferryman's throat. Deliberately dropping the body, the murderer walked up a hill and was lost to view.

Captain Filley had little to say. "If Cambridge wins they will know they Roundhouse Burns.

Ashland, O., Sept. 8.—Fire destroyed about half of the roundhouse in the yards of the Lake Shore road here, and 12 locomotives were badly damaged. The actual damage outside of the engines is placed at $25,000.

Murderer Escaped.

Gallipolis, O., Sept. 8.—Frederick Doss, a merchant and owner of the ferry line between Kananga and Point Pleasant, W. Va., was killed by Frank Clark, residing at Kananga. Doss' throat was cut from ear to ear. Clark escaped and is still at liberty.

HARVARD LOSES BOAT RACE TO CAMBRIDGE BY TWO LENGTHS ON THAMES TODAY.

The Harvard Crew and Cambridge Crew on the Thames River.

Putney, Eng., Sept. 8.—(Bulletin.)—Cambridge won this afternoon's race from Harvard by two lengths; time 19 minutes and 18 seconds.

Putney, Eng., Sept. 8.—Ideal weather conditions prevailed for the boat race today. Overhead the sun shone brightly and there was not a ripple on the Thames river. These conditions were favorable to Cambridge as the light blue crew does not like rough water.

On the strength of the weather conditions betting this morning jumped to 13 to 10 in favor of Cambridge. Although the race was not scheduled to begin until 4:30 o'clock spectators began arriving on the scene early in the morning. By noon there were thousands waiting at all advantageous positions along the course which is in the form of a huge horseshoe, four and a quarter miles long. At least 10,000 people saw the race. Notwithstanding the odds against them in the betting the Americans were serenely confident of winning. Coach Wray said: "I have every confidence in the outcome. The crew is in prime condition and able to row the race of their lives. Every man will pull as few crews have pulled before us for the full distance."

Both crews were given a great ovation when they appeared on the river and paddled toward the starting point. Cambridge this morning won the Crimson this morning won the four and a quarter mile course from Putney to Mortlake is 19 minutes and 47 seconds. Harvard in a practice triad one week ago covered the distance in 18 minutes and 50 seconds. This was accomplished on a moderate tide and in spite of the fact that they were delayed at one point by a slight southwest wind.

GREAT INTEREST TAKEN.

Putney, Eng., Sept. 8.—More interest has attached to the Cambridge-Harvard race today than to any international meet in recent years and this despite the fact that no championship or trophy was at stake but that the crews met for sport alone.

Harvard's victory over Yale for the first time in years last June brought the Crimson rowers to the front. Since their appearance in England they have attracted a great deal of attention. The work of the oarsmen is the thing which aroused the interest of all sportsmen, especially rowing experts and which made today's race the most talked of subject.

The betting this afternoon switched again a trifle in favor of Harvard.

Plenty of Harvard money was wagered at odds of 6 to 5 in favor of Cambridge where the early betting had been at 13 to 10.

Added confidence to the supporters of the crimson was given yesterday by the final practice starts. Harvard got away rapidly on a forty stroke to the minute clip.

CHE aborigines of Porto Rico have long since disappeared from the face of the earth. When Columbus discovered the Antilles he found the islands peopled by a race which in all probability was an offshoot of the Carib Indians of the mainland. The great navigator was impressed by the timid friendliness of the naked savages, whose peaceful tendencies were proclaimed by the fact that they possessed no sort of weapon. Their country was a terrestrial paradise, blessed with a soft, salubrious climate, free from wild beasts and venomous reptiles, and abounding in the fruits of the earth. Needless to say, the inhabitants of such a region knew nothing of labor or hardship. They lived the lives of happy, careless children until the "white gods" in the "flying ships" came to them from over the sea. Then life changed for the unfortunate Indians. The Spaniards forced them to dig for gold where it did not exist, and slew them when they failed to find it. They were put to unaccustomed labor in the field, and when they rebelled Spanish soldiers slaughtered them like sheep in the shambles. They were slain to give credit to the ceremonies of a saint's day; they were harried by hounds to afford sport for their conquerors. In short, the process of "pacification," as pursued by the first colonists, was, in fact, a deliberate system of extermination, so that the natives of Porto Rico, who, according to Las Casas numbered 600,000 at the time of the discovery, disappeared with such terrible rapidity that the Bishop of San Juan reported to the king in 1543 that there were but 80 Indians in the island. These figures undoubtedly applied to the pitiful remnant of males, for large numbers of women were preserved as concubines, from whom sprang a race of half-breeds, which has been gradually absorbed and lost in the later population. Traces of the miscegenation may occasionally be seen at the present day, but they are so few and so slight that they do not constitute a contradiction of the statement that the aboriginal stock is entirely extinct.

The present population of Porto Rico is composed of the descendants of two distinct classes of Spaniards—of negroes and of half castes. With the exception of Cuba and Porto Rico, every sugar producing island of the West Indies contains at least ten times as many colored persons as white. In Porto Rico the latter represent 61 per cent. of the total population, and all but one-sixth of the remainder have more or less white blood in their veins. Porto Rico was never an extensive slave-owning colony, principally because there were few capitalists in the island. In fact, until the introduction of the sugar industry by refugees from Haiti and Jamaica, the number of negroes in Porto Rico was insignificant. The humane laws promulgated by the Spanish crown for the protection of slaves were widely disregarded in the colonies, but they appear to have been strictly observed in Porto Rico. As a consequence, the negroes to that island enjoyed lenient treatment, and were permitted to secure their freedom upon easy terms. Thus we have in Porto Rico a negro element quite satisfied with their lot in life, and, in some respects, superior to their kin of the neighboring islands. They are fairly industrious, cheery and respectful. They have none of the inconscientiancy of the Santo Domingo black, and are less simple and superstitious than the Jamaican negro. It could not be expected that the Porto Rican negro should be inclined to hard work. Every kind of stimulus is lacking to him, and he has never had an example of energy, for the innate indolence of the well-to-do Spaniard is only exceeded by that of the white peasant cultivator. However, the proportion of pure negroes in the population of Porto Rico is only about the same as that of the colored to the total inhabitants of Philadelphia, and will not be an important factor in the future development of the island.

The mulattoes present an entirely different proposition. Their numbers account for about two-fifths of the total population, and show a decided tendency to increase, while the full-blooded negro is, through a process of absorption and by reason of physical shortcomings, disappearing. It is not improbable that the mulattoes will eventually form the dominant element in the native population. They are not subject to any handicaps on account of their descent in a country where no prejudice is entertained against the blacks and where no "color line" exists. With the exception of a handful of educated whites, the mulattoes are the only people in Porto Rico who display any inclination to better themselves, and they possess more than others the qualities necessary to success. The giharo—the white peasant—is not to be reckoned with.

Under the Spaniards the facilities for education were very limited, and Porto Rico labors under the unsavory distinction of having a greater degree of illiteracy than any other West Indian island, and this despite the larger proportion of the white population. More than 80 per cent. of the inhabitants are unable to read or write. It may be expected that the mulattoes will be the chief beneficiaries of the educational system under American rule, for the giharo can conceive of no future for his children more desirable than the happy go-lucky existence of their father, in which educational attainments had no place whatever. Whatever process of social evolution takes place in Porto Rico to the future must be worked out without the influence of immigration, for the island is already fully populated. Although it would be in many respects an ideal field for the small American farmer or planter, there is no room for him. There is already a population of 261 to the square mile, and the greater part of it is rural. The center of population and the center of trade are both within five or six miles of the town of Barrios, in the southeastern district of the Department of Arecibo. There is, however, an ample field in Porto Rico for capitalists, large and small, and, rather, there will be when the absurd restrictions against corporate enterprise are removed. The Porto Ricans as a community are poor. According to the last census the entire wealth of the island was estimated at $150,000,000, with an offset of about $70,000,000 of mortgages and other indebtedness leaving a per capita wealth of about $80. The development and prosperity of the country must be dependent upon American capital, and would doubtless have derived a great impetus from that source if this hot for the mistaken policy that prohibited its introduction. The legislators whose paternal protection of the funded interests of the Porto Ricans led them to amend all enlightened acts of the Fowler Act have proved themselves the worst enemies of our steady currency.

The early Spanish colonists were soldiers and adventurers, men whose knowledge was limited to the art of arms, with perhaps a smattering of navigation. God was the magnet that drew them across seas from their distant fatherland. In quest of the precious metal, they were willing to face all manner of dangers and to undergo the most severe hardships, but they had no stomach for the tame pursuits of husbandry. It was not until a later time that they learned to appreciate the sterner but more sure road to wealth by way of the plantation and the farm. With the diminution of the aristocratic planters need arose for tillers of the soil. The lack of agricultural laborers often brought the colonists into the most critical straits. Living in a land which, with little aid from man, produced foodstuffs in abundance, they depended largely upon supply ships, and when these, prevented by contrary winds or captured by enemies, failed them, the Spaniards were reduced to the verge of starvation. To relieve this condition emigration from the provinces of the mother country to Porto Rico was encouraged. The class that was introduced by this movement was composed of penniless peasants. When they arrived they found the land all parcelled out in grants to cavaliers, who, although they made no use of it, destined to give any of it to the newcomers. The latter were forced to become renters or squatters. In the former case they incurred debts that they were seldom able to liquidate, and as the law transferred these from father to child, many generations lived under a system of bondage which was virtually slavery. Thus the giharo was denied at the outset the opportunity to lead an independent life, and the incentive to better his condition and lay the foundation of a future for his children. When we concede this angle excuse, however, we are probably treating the case of the giharo in an over-liberal manner. It is doubtful whether he would have cut much of a figure in the world under the most favorable circumstances. As it is he is the most useless and the most pitiful person in Porto Rico.

The love of dolor far oleto which characterized the emigrants from sunny Andalucia has been fostered by their descendants until it has developed into the most insouciant laziness ever attained by white man. God made the country for the giharo, and condemned to the town restless beings who do not know how to appreciate his gifts. Such is the giharo's creed. He accepts with a comfortable gratitude the all-sufficient provision of a bountiful Providence, and asks no more. He is the most contented creature in existence. His little banana patch and coffee grove provide ample means of subsistence, and leave a small margin of profit, so that he may indulge his ardent passion for gambling when he goes into town on a saint's day to sell his produce and attend mass. On such an occasion he may be seen mounted behind the baskets on his unkempt pony, who thanks fate for a master of such delightful leisurely habits. Our friend has a devilish nice care air and an honest eye, with a twinkle in it that distracts the attention from his homely garments and bare legs. The long sword stuck through one of the baskets is a traditional appurtenance. As a weapon it is needless and useless, and probably could not be drawn from the scabbard. Having sold his fruit or berries in the market, he will repair to the church, say his prayers and deposit his mite in the poor-box, although there are none more poor than he. He may spend in somnolent contentment. There is nothing in which they could busy themselves if they would. A casual traveler is a godsend. There is no hostility in the hamlet, but the representatives of the learned professions will visit with one another for the pleasure of entertaining the stranger. And if he be a man weary and bore from the hot strife of a northern city a sojourn in one of these peaceful spots will be bliss unspeakable. Here all men are passing rich for all are perfectly content. Kindness—bonhomie—is the keynote of the daily life. Perfect harmony prevails. Man's mood unconsciously reflects the attitude of nature. It is all very primitive, but therein lies its chief charm. The vices of these simple, honest folk lose the sinister element in this innocent environment. The cock fight is merely the exuberant play of grown-up children. Even the padre will stop in his walk to watch an important match by the wayside, and he may become sufficiently interested to wager a half peseta upon the result. If he loses he may linger long enough to deliver a mild homily upon the sin of gambling; if he wins a benediction will not be lacking. In either case, the "father of his flock" is followed by words of warm affection and cheerful smiles. He is the dominating spirit of the place—the confidant, adviser and preceptor of his people. All this because he is thoroughly human and one of themselves, poor as they are poor, joyous and easy-going as any boy among them.

When the fagged and fretful man of affairs turns for relief from his business into the bustling paths of tourist travel he little dreams of the opportunity for recuperation offered by our lovely garden spot in the Caribbean Sea. If he be willing to throw off the baracadas of artificiality for awhile he may here secure complete rest from his cares under the most healthful and enjoyable conditions. Should he be an artist by practice or instinct, he will here find a superabundance of material for the brush or food for the eye. Nature and mankind in unaccustomed aspects afford ample and interesting study.

Porto Rico has been little affected by the emigration from the old Castilian families that formed the aristocracy of Cuba. This, to a great extent, accounts for its peaceful history as compared with that of the sister island. The island was in the early centuries of Spanish occupation a military post, and the troops by which it was garrisoned were permanently stationed there. The officers in most cases married Creoles of the island and settled there for life. The descendants of these persons, and of French and Spanish refugees from the neighboring islands, in the revolutionary times of the nineteenth century, are the gente instrada, or aristocrats of Porto Rico. Their numbers are insignificant, and are represented in the literacy exhibits by one-half of one per cent. of the population, which is something less than one million. This class supplies the merchants, planters and professional men of the island. They have accepted the change of sovereignty with ready acquiescence, mainly because of their strong love of the soil and pronounced domestic tendencies. Furthermore, although handicapped by the universal indifference of their countrymen, they are shrewd and intelligent, and fully appreciate the prospective advantages of American rule. They are much like the similar class in Cuba—well-bred, hospitable, intensely proud and generally prosperous. They are sociable in their sedate fashion, and fond of amusements, such as dancing, the theater, music, and the inevitable bull fight. Their business men are honorable and honest, if lacking in enterprise. There is in this class splendid material with which to build in the formation of a new race or nationality, so to speak, but it is too scanty to indulge the hope that it may in time leaven the whole. What is probable, however, is that intermarriage with Americans will eventuate in the production of a class possessing the best characteristics of both races, and that this class will in the course of the present century make Porto Rico what it should be, one of the most prosperous, as it is one of the most inviting countries in the world.

A Wonderful Monastery.

At Solovetski, in the Russian government of Archangel, is the most remarkable monastery in the world. The Monastery of Solovetski is inclosed on every side by a wall of granite boulders which measures nearly a mile in circumference. The monastery itself is very strongly fortified, being supported by round and square towers about 30 feet in height, with walls 20 feet in thickness.

It consists in reality of six churches, which are completely filled with statues of all kinds and precious stones. Upon the walls and the towers surrounding these churches are mounted huge guns, which, in the time of the Crimean War, were directed against the British White Sea squadron. The monks who inhabited the monastery at that time marched in procession on the granite walls whilst the shells were flying over their heads, to prove how little they feared the attack of the British fleet. Ten thousand pilgrims come annually to Solovetski from all parts of Russia to view the churches and shrubs. They are conveyed in steamers commanded and manned solely by monks.

Mayor of Chicago, Ohio.

Mayor James Barber, of Chicago Junction, formerly of Newark, was in the city Saturday and was a caller at Mayor McCleery's office. Mayor Barber, when in Newark, was a painter and painter hanger, doing contracting work. He painted the first sign which hung over Mayor McCleery's office when His Honor opened his dental office here. Mr. Barber is now engaged in the manufacturing business in Chicago Junction, operating a large paint factory there.

Newark Business College.

Prof. S. L. Beccy, principal and proprietor of the Newark Business College, has just had issued from the presses of the Advocate, a neat and attractive catalogue of the Newark Business College, designed to furnish full and complete information regarding this meritorious business college. The college was established by its present proprietor in 1885, has never changed hands, and numbers among its students every year the sons and daughters of the best people of the community. The catalogue contains pictures of a large number of the graduates of the college, many of whom are now occupying responsible positions in the business world.

Another Reform Republican Governor

Another Republican Governor has taken issue with the standpatters of his party and may have to back water or find himself outside of the party trenches. Governor Guild of Massachusetts, declared that he would not run again on any platform less liberal than that of last year. That platform, while declaring for the principle of protection, "approved the position taken by our Senators and Representatives at the last session of Congress in favor of present action, and we urge that they should continue to press upon their party associates in Congress from other States the wisdom of a consideration of the tariff for the purpose of revision and readjustment."

But Governor Guild had added to that declaration by insisting upon putting five articles on the free list—iron ore, coal, lumber, hides and paper pulp wood stock. "In his paper, the Commercial Bulletin," says the Boston correspondent of the New York Evening Post, "he has argued long for the principles of revision and reciprocity."

It remains to be seen how the coming Massachusetts Republican convention will dispose of this stand the Governor has taken.

Twenty Minutes Time Enough?To Cure the Worst Headache From Any Cause—New Reduction Method.

Most headaches and pains yield instantly to the new Reduction Method—Dr. Shoop's Twenty Minute Headache Cure. The cause for these pains is congestion—a rushing of blood to the nerve centers—which distends the veins to such an extent that the vessels and nerves are pressed against the myriads of nerve branches and fibers. Then there's pain, and finally that'sache. This new reduction method relaxes the over-tensioned and distorted nerve fibers, thus releasing the pressure and pain, and the disease whose cause has been removed.

Decision Reserved.

The Probate court was engaged on Friday in hearing the case of I. N. Wilson as administrator of the estate of Sarah Ann and Cynthia J. Wilson against Charles O. Wilson and others. The case was heard on the petition of I. N. Wilson to sell the real estate of the deceased to pay debts, and the defendants, Charles O. Wilson and Wm. J. Wilson, and J. William Gilley filed an answer setting forth that they were entitled to the one-third of the real estate as the heirs of John D. Wilson, deceased. The case occupied friendly to Mr. Fairbanks. It has grown more bitter in the last few weeks, since both the speaker and the vice president have come out openly in the race for the Republican presidential nomination.

The Cannon boom is now launched, clubs have been formed whose avowed purpose is to work for the speaker. The Cannon clubs have been given a jolt by the report that Mr. Roosevelt did not endorse the speaker but prefers Mr. Taft as his successor. This is not the last that the Cannon adherents are likely to get. There is a lively fight on between Cannon and organized labor.

The Republican orators are pointing to the fact of this country's prosperity and are arguing that it is due to the application of the principles of the G. O. P. In other words we would be going to the dogs if the Republican party were not in the saddle. They seem to entirely overlook the fact that the crops the past few years have been enormous and that the gold production has greatly increased. With the farmers selling their products at good prices and plenty of gold to be had to meet the present demands of the money market, it is apparent that the so-called prosperity is not because of, but in spite of the Republican party.

TRIGAUX SUES FOR BIG DAMAGESUTICA WINDOW GLASS COMPANY IS DEFENDANT IN ACTION FOR $10,000.*Sheriff's Sales and Realty Transfers—Days News From the Court House.

Arthur Trigaux has commenced suit against the Central Window Glass company of Utica, for $10,000 damages. Plaintiff says that he is a window glass blower having worked at the business of window glass blowing for 24 years. He says that in January, 1905, he was employed by the Central Window Glass company to blow window glass for them, at their factory at Utica, O., and that he continued working for the company until January 24, 1906. Plaintiff says that in the manufacturing of window glass and the blowing of the same, it is necessary to use a great quantity of saw dust, and that the company instructed the plaintiff and others of its blowers to procure the saw dust necessary to be used from the pits of the buzz saws in the box room of the factory. Plaintiff says that in order to procure saw dust for defendant he went to the box room; that the buzz saw over the pit, which it was necessary for the plaintiff to enter in order to secure the saw dust, was standing still and that after he had entered the pit the buzz saw was thrown into operation, and before he could free himself from his position in the pit the saw caught his right hand, lacerating, cutting and otherwise destroying it so that he has been permanently disabled from following his trade and profession of window glass blower. He says that he was able to and did earn before the injury $150 per month; that he has been unable and will be unable to ever again blow window glass; that he has expended a large amount of money for treatment of his hand, and says that he has been damaged in the sum of $10,000, for which he asks judgment with interest and costs. L. C. Stillwell, attorney for the plaintiff.

In Common Pleas.

In the case of Rosa Bevaid vs. Jackson Wertz et al, a partition case, one parcel has been sold at private sale and the other parcel at public sale. Sale reported regular, and was confirmed, and deed ordered; a finding made as to the dower estate of James Wertz. Smythe & Smythe; J. B. Jones, Black.

A. A. Stasel, receiver vs. A. M. Gilick, an action to recover on an overdraft in the Newark Savings Bank; judgment of settlement Stasel; Fitzgibbon.

The petit jurors for the September term of court will be ordered to appear on October 1.

Motions and demurrers will be heard on the 17th inst.

The court called the dockets for the term, and made an assignment of chancery cases.

LOGE NEWS

CATHOLIC KNIGHTS OF OHIO.

The State Council of the Catholic Knights of Ohio will convene at Toledo on Tuesday of the coming week. The convention will be one of the most important in the history of the C. K. of O. and every branch of this successful Catholic society will be represented. One of the features of the council will be a solemn requiem mass to be celebrated at the Immaculate Conception church. On Tuesday evening a moonlight ride will be given to all delegates and visitors on the steamer Owanna. The ladies will be given an automobile ride immediately after the solemn mass. The local committee decided not to hold any public parade, and this will be appreciated by the delegates, as it gives more time for the transaction of business.

Peter J. Mettler is chairman of the executive committee, and tendered a hearty invitation to all C. K. of O. men to attend the convention. The C. K. of O. continues to be one of the most aggressive Catholic bodies in the state. It is well officered and managed. The membership is growing steadily, and all insurance claims are paid promptly. The financial stability of the order is shown in the monthly report of the secretary, as follows: Cash in W. and O. fund $15,784.60; cash in general fund $367.92; United States bonds, par value, $225,000; market value of bonds above par, $30,487.50. Grand total assets, $271,610.02.

The total number of branches July 31, 1906, was 120. C. J. Anthony of Cleveland is state secretary, and C. B. Wirtrock of Cincinnati is state president.

At the station the babe was the center of an admiring group of blue coats and detective, and when she met her mother at the jail later she had both her chubby fists closed on pennies, nickels and dimes. The mother also received a handful of money from the warden and the sympathizing crowd in the office.

Knights of Columbus.

The Mt. Vernon Council of Knights of Columbus gave a delightful outing at Hiawatha park on Labor Day, entertaining also fraternal visitors from Danville, Newark and Mansfield. There were games and sports during the day, and the reunion of friends and fellow knight proved a very happy occasion.

Masonic.

The supreme council of the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite, F. & A. M., Northern Jurisdiction of the United States, will convene in Boston, Mass., on September 19, and will continue during the week. Mr. W. M. Cunningham of this city will attend the meeting.

A stated communication of Acme Lodge, No. 554, F. & A. M. will be held on Thursday night.

WOMEN SUFFER NEEDLESS MISERY.

MRS. LIZZIE SHARPE.

MRS. JAMES GOLLOHER.

There are hundreds of thousands of women in America suffering from Pelvic Diseases, endangering their lives by neglecting treatment. If they will write to me I will give them the benefit of my extensive experience in treating this class of ailments.

—S. B. Hartman, M. D.

Entire System Affected.

Mrs. James Golloher, Norwood, Ontario, Can., writes:

"I was suffering from systemic catarrh for about two years.

"In damp weather I was unable to do my work, as my back and sides would ache, and I thought if I did not soon find a cure I could not live long.

"I saw where Peruna had cured hundreds who had suffered as I was suffering. I decided to try it.

"After taking the first bottle, I felt a big change.

Completely Cured.

"I have taken five bottles and I am completely cured.

"I thank Dr. Hartman for his kind advice to me."

Dr. Hartman's offer will hold good during the entire summer months.

Any woman can become a regular patient by sending a written statement of her age, condition of life, symptoms of her derangements, and previous treatment.

Dr. Hartman's Advice.

Mrs. Lizzie Sharpe, 203 Friendship street, Providence, R. I., writes:

"Some time ago I wrote you, asking advice in regard to my health, describing my symptoms.

"Following your advice and taking your medicine for only five weeks, I am thankful to say I am a well woman.

He is thus brought to see a great many of such cases every year, the most of whom return to their homes to complete their treatment by correspondence.

Those wishing to become patients by correspondence should address Dr. S. B. Hartman, President of the Hartman Sanitarium Columbus, Ohio.

"Money's No Account Until Used" is a proverb often quoted, but it does not lessen the foolishness of throwing it away, especially when there is one thing that is sure to come—old age, and that, with out a cent, and then what bitter thoughts arise when we find ourselves a dependent.

The only time to do anything is NOW—the great glorious NOW—when all things are going our way, with money plentiful and hopes high, then is when we should commence to save.

Let us help you to be independent.

Every Boy and Girl Wants a Chance

To succeed in life, and the boy or girl who is educated for business has ten times better chances than the one who is not.

This has been proven time and again. If you want to see the proof, look at our list of "Former Pupils Who Are Doing Things."

As a matter of fact, not one graduate of Bliss College is out of a position at this time. As another fact, we have requests for three times as many office assistants as we can supply.

WHAT DOES THIS MEAN TO YOU?

It means that if you want to make sure of success in life, you should start now to secure a business education at Bliss College. Ask us—in person if you can, or on a postal card—for full information. You can't afford to put it off. Fall opening is September 10.

AT TIFFIN

Mansfield and New Castle Will Play Sunday—Good Crowd Will Probably See Game.

The Mansfield-New Castle aggregation will play the game scheduled at Mansfield for tomorrow, at Tiffin, O., Sunday afternoon. At the same time, as part of a double header, the game, which was forfeited to Mansfield at Shelby several weeks ago, will be played off, according to the instructions from President Morton. Both the B. & O. and Pennsylvania lines out of Mansfield are offering special rates and big excursions will probably go from Mansfield. With good weather, the two teams will play to several thousand people at Tiffin, as it is one of the best Sunday ball towns in Ohio.

Marion is certainly a disappointment as far as attendance goes. One of the players remarked that it was like going off in a wilderness by themselves and fighting it out without any roosters.

Webb asked to be relieved after the second inning yesterday, but Manager Snodgrass thought he might as well keep on with the game. As it was, Webb was pounced harder than any pitcher Newark has had.

Henry Jackson, the Akron twirler who has been mysteriously missing, is in Youngstown on Thursday evening, coming from New Castle with the Chippewas. He had been celebrating in New Castle. He said he intended to return to Akron.

Speaking of the torture to which some of the savage tribes in the Philippines subject their enemies, remains me of the intense suffering inflicted on the Indians of the state of Ohio, the members of the Kiowas," says W. M. Sherman, of Cuyahoga, Mo. "Nothing helped me until I tried Electric Chairs, the novel or which considerably aided me." Our Liver Complaint Doctor, Dr. J. H. B. Fohr, and his wife, and friends the wife and daughter of the late Dr. J. H. B. Fohr, received $242.75. Each received $24.88.

The attendance in Akron was nearly half of that of all the other cities. The gate receipts at League park were $1,214.70, the total of the league was $2,918.83. Youngstown was next. Small town fans paid $1,127.65 to see Sharon yesterday in the afternoon. The attendance was 2,981. Newark was the poorest town. In the morning 326 saw the game and in the afternoon 956 admissions were paid. Newark's contribution to the day's receipts was but $226.70. Lancaster was next poorest. The morning attendance in Lancaster was 537 and the afternoon 1,214. Lancaster's contribution was $432.75. Each received $24.88.

It is every bit as foolish to try to get rid of dandruff and to prevent baldness by feeding the germs which cause it, with cantharides, vaseline, glycerine and similar substances which form the principal ingredients of most so-called hair vigor.

Whitney May Cr.

Big Bert Whitney, who plays first base and for whom Marty Hogan paid $200 a couple of months ago, is stated to get the crimp. Hogan is after a man to take Whitney's place. He left yesterday for Harrisburg where he expects to land two players and probably three. He is after Culpeper of the Harrisburg team, and if he can be secured it will be 23 for Mr. Whitney. Hogan is also after a shortstop named Star, who plays in the Outlaw League. Before leaving New Castle he stated that he would win the O. P. pennant if he had to sign entire Harrisburg team and spend a barrel of money. It is said that Hogan and some of the players have been on bad terms for nearly a month now and that he is under the impression that some of them gave him the double cross when the team was losing games.

ONLY ONE GAME WAS PLAYED HERE TODAY

The Marion club did not arrive in the city until 2:45 this afternoon on account of the double header scheduled for the afternoon was rained off. The Lime Burners missed connections with the interurban at Columbus and did not catch the car here at 12:15 as was intended. The game will have to be played on another date.

In reappointing Ratchford, the governor does not break his rule against giving new commissions to heads of departments who were rejected by the state senate. Ratchford was confirmed by a larger vote than any other candidate for confirmation received. This was because he had only a few weeks to serve and the Democrats were to maintain certain methods, which the Republicans of the state so largely oppose at the present time. It is this system which I am fighting, not individuals. * * * I have no intention—men who are opposing the present conditions have no intention—of building a new organization in place of the old. No support could be expected from the party for such a purpose. The changes now demanded in present methods, if effected, would be sufficient guarantee against that. They are intended to make organization and the use of party for personal ends more difficult, if not impossible."

In corroboration of that part of Mr. Ratchford's statement which relates to the distribution of patronage Governor Harris said:

"Yes, it is true that in my interview with Congressman Burton I defined my position in the present contest as one of neutrality. I shall, neither as governor nor personally, take up either side of the situation. This matter will not be considered in the making of appointments nor in retaining positions now held. No, I have not made any request on this subject to any of my subordinates. I have not assumed to in any way interfere with their political rights or preferences in politics. I am simply holding the institution boards and heads of departments appointed by the governor responsible for the conduct of their respective departments, and leave to them the working out of the question of minor appointments."

Statements, counter-statements, replies and rebuttals have been numerous of late, especially the exchanges between Mr. Burton and the two senators. It would take columns to contain it all, so it is useless to go farther. This "battle of the giants" will soon be on in earnest at Dayton. A determined effort is being made to overthrow "the organization," and predictions as to the outcome are quite contrary, tintured of course by personal prejudice, so that the reader must be wary and form his own opinion. At any rate, after the close of the convention Wednesday, "the lion and the lamb will lie down together," and a campaign opener will be held in the convention hall that night at which all the prominent Republicans present will speak.

Orpha Moore is back in his old position as correspondence clerk in the governor's office. He was chosen by Governor Harris to succeed Miss Ada Longley of Cincinnati, who had the place during the Pattison regime. Moore had the place under Governors McKinley and Bushnell, and was secretary of the commission which erected the annex to the statehouse for the supreme court and other offices.

Another recruit is added to the numerous force of aspirants for the Republican nomination for governor in 1908. He is J. J. Sullivan of Ashland, a former member of the Ohio senate and now United States district attorney at Cleveland. In announcing his candidacy for governor Mr. Sullivan said: "This announcement is made because of the demands of my friends. Only the call of the rank and file of the Republican party should summon the nominee for governor for our great state."

About 20 freight agents responded to the call of the state railway commission for a conference as to tariff schedules, and the matter was discussed in a friendly and businesslike way. So far there are no indications that any railroad will resist the operation of the new law. Many questions were asked but they were all to secure information. An expert in tariff schedules will be appointed by the commission before the date set to be fixed for the filing of the schedules, who will have charge of them.

There were 74 fatalities reported to the commission during August, of which 40 were to trespassers and 29 to employees and the others were travelers on highways.

The Ohio State Grange had a two-day session on the fair grounds during the state fair, with about 200 members present. John Begg of Columbus Grove presided. There were speeches from several of the members. The members of the grange, who are some of the most successful farmers in all Ohio, report that the crops this year have figured just a trifle above the average. Governor Harris, who is something of a farmer himself, and is sometimes referred to as "the farmer governor," attended one of the sessions of the Grange.

Mr. Burton gave out which his most significant speech was:

"Myself or any one local to Cleveland or Cuyahoga county, I find that the men who are seeking employment have not forgotten nor neglected their families."

One of the big moves on the board was the visit of Congressman Burton to Columbus to confer with Harry Dougherty, Governor Harris and other prominent citizens.

After his visit to the state he gave the following speech:

"Myself or any one local to Cleveland or Cuyahoga county, I find that the men who are seeking employment have not forgotten nor neglected their families."

Governor Harris appointed John Pollock of Belmont county to the vacant common pleas judgeship in that district caused by the recent death of Judge Hollingsworth. Pollock is a Republican candidate for judge.

An interesting phase of the new liquor laws of Ohio is brought out by the closing of a saloon in this city conducted by M. L. Moriarity, because of Moriarity's failure to pay his license fee. The account against him was certified by the state auditor to the county treasurer and the saloon was closed by the latter. The amount due is $750, with a penalty of $150, making a total of $900. The property in which the saloon is located is said to be owned by James Kenny, and if Moriarity does not settle the bill it will be collected from the property owner. Should it go so far this would be the first case in which the owner of property would be held liable for deficiency of a tenant engaged in the saloon business.

The Independent Circle met at the home of Mrs. Dora Hedrick on South Second street on Friday afternoon with a very large attendance. After the general routine of business, Mrs. Cecilia Atherton gave a select reading which was very much enjoyed by the members. Mrs. Crawshaw then gave a recitation which was very much appreciated. Mrs. Louis Reed gave a very instructive talk for the good of the order. Four new members were received into the circle. Mrs. Crawshaw proved the lucky member for this month, having drawn the prize. After adjournment the ladies were served with a dainty luncheon. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Kate Flehr on Hudson avenue the second Friday in October. A large attendance is desired.

One of the most enjoyable events of the past week was the birthday surprise given in honor of Mr. Jesse P. Miller at his home on Buckingham street Thursday evening by the C. E. society of the Central Church of Christ. The evening was spent in various games, and at a late hour light refreshments were served the following guests: Rev. and Mrs. H. N. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. F. F. and Mrs. Miller were assisted in receiving by Mrs. E. B. Richards, Mrs. Judson Flehr, Mrs. S. C. Hendrick, Mrs. Grether.

Mrs. W. T. Moore entertained informally on Monday evening at pedro, complimentary to Mr. Keene of Baltimore Md. At the close of the game delicious refreshments were served.

Mrs. Jennie Johns and Mrs. William Canterbury delightfully entertained the Harmonious club. The house was beautifully decorated. The color scheme of pink and white was artistically carried out. After the business of the club, each member was presented with a hand-painted plate, the work of Mrs. Canterbury. An elaborate course luncheon was served. They adjourned to meet with Mrs. William Moore, 214 South street, Zanesville, Ohio, September 11. The members will leave Newark on the 12 o'clock car.

Mrs. John Henry Franklin gave a delightful bridge party at her home on West Church street Wednesday afternoon. At the close of an interesting game the prize was awarded to Mrs. W. G. Corne.

The guests of the afternoon were Messrs. W. G. Corne, William Schroeder, Helen Franklin, G. E. Besanceney, Edward King, Misses Josephine Veach, Lillian Latimer, Carrie Allen, Grace Gorby, Bessie Throats, Jennie Irwin, Alice Ashbrook, Mrs. Charles Baldwin, and Mrs. F. E. Gorby of New Castle, Pa., Miss Ethel Hart of Washington, Pa.

Mrs. William Sedgwick very charmingly entertained on Friday afternoon at bridge whist complimentary to her sister, Mrs. W. G. Corne. The prize was received by Mrs. Fred Moseller.

At the close of the game a most delicious luncheon was served.

The guests present were: Mrs. Albert Webb, Mrs. Edward King, Mrs. John Franklin, Mrs. Robbins Hunter, Mrs. C. W. Miller, Mrs. Channing Thompson, Miss Shirley Pitser, Sabina Hirschberg, Lillian Latimer, Ida Moore.

The out of town guests were Mrs. Fred Moseller of Shelbyville, Ind., and Miss Latimer's guest, Miss Hart, of Washington, Pa.

Miss Mayme Heipley charmingly entertained on Saturday evening at her pretty home on West Church street, complimentary to Miss Ida Wammes and Miss Margaret Besanceney of Piqua, O. The game of the evening was euchre, the favors for which were awarded Miss Katherine Rielly and Miss May Kammerer. At the close of the game dainty refreshments were served.

Miss Heipley's guests were: Misses Louise Graeff, Helen Brennan, Helen Sachs, May Kammerer, Katherine Rielly, Mrs. Bernard McDonough, Mrs. George Streams, Mrs. Charles Pieri, Mrs. Gerard Besanceney.

Miss Bright Hilliard entertained Wednesday afternoon with a linen shower, complimentary to Miss Gladys Hilliard one of the September brides. During the afternoon euchre was played, the prize for the lone hands being awarded to Mrs. Charles Magee, and the one for points to Miss Hazel Thomas. Miss Hilliard received many pretty and useful pieces of linen.

Dainty refreshments were served the following guests: Misses Gladys Hilliard, Mary Haight, Lillian Miller, Amy Franklin, Anna Priest, Hazel Thomas, Florence Fulton, Lulu Starr, Mrs. Atwell Hilliard and Mrs. Charles Magee of Kenton. Miss Bright Hilliard was assisted by Misses Josephine Hilliard and Marjorie Lawhead.

On Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. James Connors on East Main street, Mrs. John Francis and Mrs. James Connors delightfully entertained with a miscellaneous shower complimentary to Miss Stella Howard. The game of the evening was pedro, the souvenirs for which were awarded Miss Anna Sheridan and Mr. Edward Hirst.

At the close of the game Miss Howard was seated before an enormous heart suspended from the chandelier by dainty ribbons and when these were cut the dainty, pretty and useful gifts were showered onto the bridegroom.

The closing feature of the evening was the delicious luncheon, which was served the following guests: Miss Stella Howard, Mr. and Mrs. P. J. EMBROIDERED BANTS ARE EFFECTIVE.

To the skilled needlewoman a few yards of lace entre deux ditto embroidery bands, and a little coarse lace to give a note of emphasis to the finer kinds, immediately begins to suggest possibilities in the way of fancy blouses. At any of the places where they teach dress-cutting it is possible to get a pattern of a sac-waist cut to one's own measurements for a small sum, and this will serve as a foundation in construction to the front, and the sleeves stops short below the bend of the elbow.

For further blouses, a very sheer nainsook is embroidered in a big daisy pattern, the center of the flower displaying some openwork, and the work all well padded so that it stands out in bold relief. A shallow vole is formed of alternate strips of Valenciennes and point de gaze lace, and the embroidery, laid on an all-over Valenciennes, forms the body and sleeves of the blouse. The back is similar in construction to the front, and the sleeve stops short below the bend of the elbow.

PRINTERS' FUNDS

Have All Been Spent and the Establishment May Have to Close Down—Slater Blamed.

Columbus, Sept. 8.—The State Printing Department is practically without funds with which to conduct business and the result may be that officials will have to go back to "ye olden days" and write orders and bulletins by hand. That the department will be able to secure about $17,000 from the State Emergency board to tide over the present rough sea has been decided against by Attorney General Wade H. Ellis, who so informed State Printer John W. Johnson.

This peculiar state of affairs may have considerable to do with delaying the bids for state printing, and the state commission which has this in charge is on the wavy seat. However, they may be enabled to go ahead with the understanding with the successful bidder that he can take vouchers and run the risk of having them cashed at some future date.

This condition is blamed on Mark Slater, who preceded State Printer Johnson for not having appeared before the Legislature and making his wants known in order that the finance committee could have recommended a sufficient amount with which to conduct the department. Unless some arrangements can be made it is quite probable that the printing establishment of the state will have to close down and that printing houses will not be given work enough to keep their forces busy. It may all end in the printing crafts taking the matter up in an earnest manner with the state officials. As it stands, the Legislature alone can grant relief and it will not meet until 1908.

Chicago, Sept. 8.—Traces of finger prints and other marks of violence on the neck of a baby boy who was found carefully wrapped in a "telescope" checked in the Fair by a woman led Coroner's Physician Hunter yesterday to believe that the child had been murdered.

The police are searching for the woman, who hastily checked the telescope and vanished.

Bearing a neat parcel the woman appeared at the window of the check-room and declared she "only wanted

GOLD IN ADOBE WALLS

Mexico City, Mex., Sept. 8.—More than 300 buildings in the city of Guanajuato, which were built many years ago from adobe blocks made of the tailings from primitive smelter, mixed with mud, have been sold to the mining concern.

It was recently discovered that the walls of the houses assay from $5 to $20 in gold per ton. The company which purchased them will smelt the mixture with modern methods and expects to realize a profit of several hundred thousand dollars. The walls of some of the larger houses contain gold valued to the amount of $3,000 or $4,000.

GENERAL GUERRA BLOCKS CUBAN PEACE OVERTURES

INSURGENT LEADER REFUSES TO ENTER ARRANGEMENTS FOR A TRUCE.

HIS BIG FORCE NOW ACTIVE

Railway Communication Cut and an Attack is Made on the Town of San Juan.

Havana, Sept. 8.—All peace overtures are blocked by the refusal of Pino Guerra, insurgent leader in Pinar Del Rio province, to enter into any arrangement for an armistice. Guerra's answer to the government's announcement of its readiness to grant a 10-days' armistice is the blowing up of two bridges on the Western railway, the cutting of railway communication beyond Pinar Del Rio city, and an attack on San Juan de Martinez. It is believed that San Juan de Martinez is in the hands of the insurgents, and that the garrison of 100 government recruits and a small force of mounted rural guards has been defeated or captured.

The fact that other leaders of the insurrection are willing to agree to an armistice can have little effect so long as Guerra is determined to prosecute the war, as there is slight doubt in any quarter that Guerra can control the situation in his region. His force is reported as more than 3,000 men, all well mounted, some well and others indifferently armed. The opposing government forces under command of Colonel Avalos comprises about 1,000 men. It was reinforced by Lieutenant Colonel Clews with 150 men and three machine guns from Havana. Colonel Avalos' force, with the exception of small detachments left at San Juan de Martinez and San Luis, is at Pinar Del Rio City, but is without means of transportation to go to the relief of San Juan de Martinez.

All here regard the blowing up of an English company's railroad bridges as a serious matter, and likely to invite international action by Great Britain, or at least an interrogation of the government at Washington by Great Britain as to whether the former intends to intervene.

Liberals' leaders have declined to hold any further meetings to consider peace owing to the action of the government in arresting prominent Liberals while the negotiations were in progress.

The attitude of the Liberals, the increasing strength of the insurgents and the questionable loyalty of many of the government recruits have caused the managers of some of the large business interests to cable to the foreign heads of their companies their belief that the government of President Palma will be unable to cope with the insurrection.

FORGERIES

For Quarter of a Million by the Suicide Bank President.

Philadelphia, Sept. 8.—Reverend Earle has discovered forgeries for more than a quarter of a million dollars, the work of Frank K. Hippie, the suicide president of defunct Real Estate Trust company. The latter made this statement, adding that he had no idea where Hippie's villainy would end. Hippie in order to meet his immense overdrafts used the names of some of the most prominent business men of this city on notes which, in some cases, amounted to $150,000. The president had taken copies of the signatures of a number of business men while some of their checks or negotiable securities passed through his hands, but in every case he avoided the use of the name of a Real Estate Trust company depositor. When pressed for money to meet his overdrafts or some big Segal loan, Mr. Earle said, as a last resort Hippie would draw up a note with the forged signature attached. This he would take to the cashier or paying teller, saying he had personally made the loan and that it was discounted. With the amount to his credit he would satisfy the pressing claim.

Reverend Earle said that in order to accomplish the reorganization of the Real Estate Trust company he would accept the presidency if the depositors insist.

REVOLUTION

In Progress at Mogador on the Atlantic Coast of Morocco—Tribes Attack Town.

Tangier, Morocco, Sept. 8.—A revolution is in progress at Mogador, on the Atlantic coast of Morocco. The insurgent tribes are attacking the town. The French minister here has sent the cruiser Galilee to the scene of the disturbance, and the representatives of the other powers have called for men-of-war. The representative of the sultan here, Mohammed El Torres, is trying to charter steamers to take troops to Mogador.

HEBREW TEMPLE

New Building at Louisville is Dedicated With Imposing Ceremony—Big Crowd.

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 8.—The new temple of the congregation Adath Israel was dedicated with imposing ceremonies in the presence of a crowd which taxed the capacity of the building. Many prominent Hebrews, including nearly all the rabbis from the east and the south, were present. The introductory address was by Rabbi Emanuel of Louisville, the sermon was delivered by Rabbi Philippo of Cincinnati, and the services were read by Rabbi Moses of Mobile and Rabbi Goldenson of Lexington, Ky. The perpetual light was set afame by Miss Elsie Moses, daughter of the late Rabbi Adolph Moses.

Law Applicable to Porto Rico. San Juan, Porto Rico, Sept. 8.—In the United States district court the demurser of the Porto Rico Steamship company to the complaint of the Peck Steamship company claiming $100,000 damages for alleged violation of the Sherman anti-trust law, was overruled by Judge Roddy, who held that Porto Rico is territory of the United States and that the Sherman anti-trust law therefore is applicable.

STATE OF TRADE.

New York, Sept. 8.—R. G. Dun & Company's weekly review of trade says: "None, market irregularities had no ill effect on legitimate business and prices of securities quickly rallied when good imports were arranged." Scarce labor is a much more important trade influence, restricting production of factories and causing delays in harvesting of crops, while structural work is also retarded. Fall sowing trade is making progress. Shipping documents forward goods as rapidly as possible. Quotations are well maintained, and some improvement is noted in collections. Wholesome reports from the iron and steel industry and expectation of large crops have developed a tone of confidence in the commercial world.

Placed on Track by Robbers.

Wheeling, W. Va., Sept. 8.—George Lewis of Martin's Ferry, O., and son of a wealthy coal operator, was brutally beaten by a gang of thieves who, in hopes of bidding their crime, placed him on the railroad track in order that he would be killed by a passing train. James Arbaugh, a grocer who was coming up the track, stumbled over the body in the darkness. He pulled Lewis to safety just two minutes before the midnight express went rushing past.

A REPLY TO BRYAN'S SPEECH

ILLINOIS MAN ACCUSES NEBRASKAN OF HAVING ASSUMED THE ROLE OF DIKTATOR.

New York, Sept. 8.—A length statement was issued here by Roger C. Sullivan, Illinois member of the national Democratic committee, in which he replies to the recent attacks made on him by Mr. Bryan. Mr. Sullivan says:

"In his Jefferson club banquet speech at Chicago William J. Bryan again saw fit to make me the excuse for exploiting his new ambition to convert the Democratic party of the United States into an autocracy with himself on the dictator's throne. I regret that he has done so, as I would regret any incident or circumstance tending toward discord in the Democratic party. If portions of Mr. Bryan's speech mean anything, they mean that he would rather have his own way than have the Democrats elected to congress or any other office. He has invited all Illinois Democrats who agree with him in his opposition to me to bolt their ticket. As a Democrat I regret that Mr. Bryan's rule or ruin disposition has led him to make such misuse of his influence. But insofar as Mr. Bryan's banquet speech applies to me personally, I welcome the issue, and on that issue I challenge Mr. Bryan to prove his political asset. Mr. Bryan has said by innuendo that I, as an official of the Ogden Gas company of Chicago, have secured government favor and profit by illegal or corrupt means. He harps on my connection with the Ogden Gas company as if that connection was disreputable. The public press will show that the only offense this corporation ever committed was to reduce the price of gas. Among my associates in that company were Governor John P. Altgeld and Judge Thomas A. Moran of Chicago. Does Mr. Bryan dare impugn their memories?

"Mr. Bryan was not honest and he was not sincere when he commissioned Nelson, Thompson, Dunlap and Ramey to "purify" Illinois politics and claimed morality as his motive. He was not truthful when he stood up in Chicago Tuesday evening to explain his position. The very first paragraph in Mr. Bryan's speech on me and on the Illinois situation contains a deliberate untruth. Practically every succeeding paragraph contains either a deliberate untruth or an equivocation of the kind that we expect from the shifty, word-juggling pettifogger." Mr. Sullivan's assertion that Mr. Bryan's assertion that he held his seat on the national committee by fraud was refuted two years ago at St. Louis by the national convention itself, and that Sullivan had not asked for an endorsement from the state convention. Mr. Sullivan concludes:

"I propose that Mr. Bryan and I put the issue as between us up to the men who sat as delegates in the Springfield convention of two years ago. Those delegates are still living in Illinois; they can all be found. Mr. Bryan said that a majority of them was opposed to me for national committee. Let us poll those delegates. Let us have this poll made under the direction of the chief justice of the supreme court of Illinois. If the majority of those delegates will support Mr. Bryan's present contention and will say that I was elected to the national committee by fraud, then I will resign from the national committee. On the other hand—and this I contend is but a fair proposition—if the majority of those delegates of two years ago do not support Mr. Bryan's allegation of fraud then I will insist that Mr. Bryan will no longer be a candidate for the presidency at the hands of the Democratic party."

FIFTY MEN

ON A TROLLEY CAR THAT WAS STRUCK BY A TRAIN.

Philadelphia, Sept. 8.—Thirty men were killed and a score of others injured in a grade crossing accident near the Atlantic refining company's plant. A trolley car containing about 50 men returning from work at a local refinery was struck by a train of empty tank cars on the Pennsylvania railroad. Owen Sweeney, 25, was ground to pieces under the wheels of a tank car, and James Bewar, 60, and an unknown man died later at a hospital. Twenty others were conveyed to various hospitals but none of these is believed to be seriously injured.

OPEN SHOP

ADJUSTMENT OF TROUBLES AT FRISCO IS NOT PROCEEDING ALONG THE SMOOTHEST LINES.

San Francisco, Sept. 8.—The adjustment of the troubles between the United Railways and a portion of its union employees is not proceeding along the smoothest lines. The question of the open shop has now presented itself and is said to be causing much trouble. When a number of recent strikers returned to the shops to resume their old places they found that nonunionists had been employed. Thornwall Mullally, assistant to President Calhoun of the United Railways, declared that the company would not discharge any employee to make room for men who went out on strike. It is unlikely that the men will be called on strike again, but it is possible that the electrical workers, the foremen and perhaps the railway constructors may not go back.

OF A WITNESS SOUGHT IN THE STEUNENBERG MURDER CASE.

Bosque, Idaho, Sept. 8.—Application for a writ of habeas corpus was made by Darrow and Nugent on behalf of Steve Adams, who is held at the penitentiary as a witness in the Meyer, Haywood and Pettibone case. J. W. Millard, a wealthy uncle of Adams, brings the action. Adams was not mixed up in the Steunenberg murder, but is supposed to hold valuable information against the alleged "inner circle" of the Western Federation of Miners, which the prosecution has been guarding with great care by holding Adams at the penitentiary as a witness. Local counsel were hired to appear with the Federation lawyers to secure the release of Adams.

Breach of Trust Alleged. Hopkinsville, Ky., Sept. 8.—The grand jury of Letcher county has turned an indictment against County Attorney John W. Peeler, charging him with misappropriating $1700 trust funds placed in his hands as master commissioner prior to assuming office Jan. 1, 1906.

Brack's Announcement. New York, Sept. 8.—Senate Edgar E. Brack's of Saratoga announced that he is a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor.

MOVING PICTURES OF FIGHT.

San Francisco, Sept. 8.—An impression which obtained at first that the Gates Nelson contest the first of the moving pictures were not to be shown at the end of the month, and that there was no shooting after the end of the racing meet of the year, was soon discovered to be incorrect. On a copy of the racing program to which the men who took the pictures, 2000 prints were obtained even of the best rounds.

Packers' Trial Postponed. Chicago, Sept. 8.—One of the charges against the various packing companies and a movement in a combination in restraint of trade and commerce has been postponed until Nov. 10. This action was taken after a conference between attorneys for the government and the packers, for the reason that the trial date would be prepared for trial date to the date of trial date.

COAL RATES IN OHIO REVISED BY COMMISSION

NEW BASIS AGREED UPON AT AN IMPORTANT MEETING HELD IN COLUMBUS.

ALL FIELDS TO BE ALIKE

Trust Held Responsible for Present Price of Bituminous Coal Which Has Been Raised.

Columbus, Sept. 8.—At the conference that the railroad commissioners held with representatives of the railroads engaged in the Ohio coal trade, important action was determined upon relative to coal traffic in Ohio, this action being the making of an agreement that in the future the same rates shall apply in this state to competitive and non-competitive stations. This means an entire revision of the tariff rates of the state. Under the system just agreed upon the rate can not be greater for one station than it is for any station beyond. Whether a station is a junction of road or not, therefore, will in the future have nothing to do with the railroad rates on coal. To make this revision some time will be required, and it was therefore agreed that the new rates should go into effect Jan. 1, 1907. All the representatives of the companies were favorable to the change. It was also agreed that each company should publish its rates separately and under its own name.

TREMBLORS

Felt in Indiana, Island of St. Vincent and Chile.

Princeton, Ind., Sept. 8.—A distinct earthquake shock was felt here. The shock lasted for two or three seconds, and was felt in towns and cities within 50 miles of Princeton. Houses rocked and dishes rattled on their shelves. The shock was preceded by a loud, rumbling noise.

QUAKES IN ST. VINCENT.

Kingstown, Island of St. Vincent, Sept. 8.—Sharp shocks of earthquake were felt here and at St. Lucia and Grenada. In the latter place the shock was strong and protracted. The Soufriere volcano is undisturbed.

FELT EARTH SHOCKS.

Buenos Ayres, Sept. 8.—Seven earthquake shocks were felt at Talca, Chile, 110 miles south-southwest of Santiago.

DRY GOODS TRADE.

New York, Sept. 8.—Business for the week in the wholesale dry goods district has been fully up to expectations. Buyers find it necessary to visit the primary market often in order to keep covered on the numerous advances which are occurring in the prices of staple lines. The impossibility of getting any large quantity of goods for immediate delivery keeps them buying small quantities frequently.

Atlantic City, with a winter population of only 30,000 has a summer population of about 200,000.

QUESTION BOX IS CONDUCTED AT CITY INSTITUTE

The first thing on Friday afternoon's program was a Question Box, again satisfactorily conducted by Mr. Van Cleve. A number of questions were asked by the teachers, their subject matter going into the work of every girl and condition, and these were carefully and thoughtfully discussed. The hour devoted each day to these questions and answers has probably been of more value and interest than any one other thing on the week's program.

Mr. Milton R. Scott was given a few minutes in which he read extracts from an address, delivered before the Columbus teachers by Judge Dillon, on the theme of punishment of child criminals.

Miss Sutherland devoted her last hour to her promised address on "The Roman Plays of Shakespeare."

When you are reading "Shakespeare," she began, do anything but read Shakespeare in chronological order. Richard Grant White says, "whatever you do, do not do that."

The beginning place is not so much importance; but if you are reading his great tragedies, or his great comedies it is well to be able to compare one tragedy with another tragedy, or one comedy with another. If you are studying English history, and want the spirit of the past, read Shakespeare's historical plays.

But if you want to go back to Roman history, there are three magnificent plays, without which one does not know Shakespeare—Coriolanus, Julius Caesar and Anthony and Cleopatra. For these, Shakespeare has borrowed very largely from Plutarch, not only in spirit, but even in some of his very words.

Coriolanus, great in spirit, towers in every attribute. His story is familiar to many, but will always bear review. The time is fixed 494 B. C., when Rome was torn by strife between patrician and plebeian; so the great hero cannot be judged in the light of the Christian religion. We must be just to him.

Some critics have affirmed that in this play we find Shakespeare unjust to the common people; perhaps, because in his hero, he is looking from the patrician point of view. Here Shakespeare has given us three of his finest woman characters. Volumnia, the noble Roman mother. Virgilia, the gentle wife called by her husband "my gracious silence," and Valeria, the loving friend. Many minor characters also walk through the pages of the play.

In the beginning of the story, its hero is coming home from war, with another wound, cause of great rejoicing to his mother of sorrow and anxiety to his wife. Events hurry on, until Coriolanus, absolutely the savior of his country, is, through the influence of demagogues, banished from Rome. Sadly he bids farewell to his wife, to mother, to little son, to his friends of noble touch."

The great tragedy of the play now comes to pass—tragedy not in action, but in the soul of the hero. Treachery? Ungovernable pride? Coriolanus, in disguise, seeks the camp of the enemy, and offers to lead the Volscians against his city Rome. The enemy recognize that some one more than ordinary is among them—true greatness can never be disguised.

Rome fell, from one disgrace to another, until all their hope lay in Coriolanus, but he was leading the enemy against the city. Then came out to meet him the gentle wife, and the mother who had made him all that he was. It was the mother who went out to plead with her son for his country; and the son yields to her prayers. She had saved Rome, but lost her son; and the life of the son soon paid to his enemies the penalty of his life.

It is Volumnia who stands magnified on every page, the most perfect type of the Roman matron. It is said that this play was written for the glorification of motherhood, just after Shakespeare had lost the mother who was all in all to him, the one magnifying and glorifying influence that followed his whole life.

Julius Caesar brings the contrast of another Roman woman. It has been discussed many times whether this play should be called "Brutus" or "Caesar." Critics generally favor the former, and yet Caesar is the dominating influence that walks through the play from beginning to end. His death is the great tragedy. Critics claim, too, that Shakespeare has not here drawn the true Caesar, but a man filled with vain glory; but it seems better to think that Shakespeare is depicting Caesar only as a great man who realizes his own greatness.

In this play we find Shakespeare's most perfect and beautiful woman character—Portia, the wife of Brutus, endowed with "man's mind, and woman's might." She was not masculine but everything that was pure and good and lovely. "So fathered and so honored" as she was, she proudly held herself a woman called to lead a life better than that of other women. The third Roman play brings us to the tragedy of "Anthony and Cleopatra." Anthony has every power and gift of an orator, and makes Shakespeare's most thrilling oration. The quarrel between Brutus and Cassius is one of the stepping stones in the tragedy, bitter and inexcusable, until Brutus says simply "Porcius is dead," and then the keynote to his whole change of character is struck.

Some one has compared the reading of "Anthony and Cleopatra" after "Julius Caesar" to the passing from a gallery of antique statuary to a hall of brilliant paintings. Though the whole play hinges on Anthony's vice and folly, Shakespeare never fails to paint the hideousness of vice and the bitterness of the downfall which follows it.

In portrayal of character and language, Shakespeare is here at his best. He is depicting two lovers whose love cannot be measured. All the pathos of this sad, sad, unhappy love, all the tragedy of soul, of nation, of East against West, is summed up in Anthony's death scene. The thought comes to us, if this love could be so overpowering, so strong, what must be the majesty, the strength of pure love, culminating in the love of God, the fruit of which all other loves are but beautiful and fleeting blossoms?

Mr. Van Cleve's last lecture took the subject "Poems that every child should know." Ruskin has said that "poetry is the problem of putting the infinite into the finite. The infinitely beautiful expression of human thought and emotion." Psychologists assure us that the first faculties becoming vigorous in the child are the perceptive faculties, and close on these, the imagination. In this imaginative period of life, therefore, poetry should be the child's meat and drink.

But another has said what is even stronger than Ruskin's statement—it is Wordsworth who says that poetry is the breath and spirit of all knowledge."

In the choice of poetry, the knowledge of the cultured teacher should be sought as guide. But ideals and culture differ so from fallacious personal differences that they are not always safe to be trusted. Historical estimates, as well as personalities, cause differences of choice. Too many names, commonly considered great, are only relatively great. Among our modern poets, we have so many fine names that none of them loom very high. There are so many exquisite artists that we can not differentiate them largely.

A cultured teacher should seek some standard of judgment by which a good poem can be recognized and judged. There is no better standard than this—that a great poem is to be judged by high truth and seriousness. The fixed laws of truth and beauty shall determine the taste of the teacher. Poe declared that "the purpose of poetry is the revelation of beauty." This is his highest ideal, and "The Raven" carrying out this thought, is as cold and mechanical a piece of work as was ever written. The author's own explanation we find in his essay, "The Rationale of Poetry." The tragic keynote, "Nevermore" was coldly and systematically hunted out from the dictionary, and there is not one breath of real poetry in a single line. The seriousness is there, but not the high truth.

There are some particular classes of poems that all children should know. A liberal supply of nursery instruction in Mother Goose is necessary to a liberal education.

Next, a child ought to have "nonsense poems" read to him and taught to him. Edward Lear, who has written the nonsense rhymes best worth while, is also the originator of the limerick. "The Owl and the Pussy Cat" is the best example of this class of poetry. In "Alice in Wonderland" we find more poetry of the same type.

The children should be taught moral and suggestive poems, even though they are not at first fully understood. The child should also be taught poems descriptive of child life. "The Old Oaken Bucket" and Hood's "Remember, I Remember, the House Where I was Born," are of this class.

Children ought to learn lyrical poems for the sake of rhythm. The most exquisitely beautiful lyric in the English language is Shelley's "Ode to a Skylark."

He should also be taught patriotic poems, with a definite purpose—that he may have developed in him the atrractive spirit. The greatest poem of patriotic character ever written in this country is Walt Whitman's "My Captain, O My Captain!" Probably second to it is the poem by which Holmes saved "Old Ironsides."

Finally, every child ought to be taught religious poetry—not the cheap stuff in which many Sunday schools have been deluged in the last thirty years, but the old hymns which awaken the stirring of all that is best and noblest in the soul. It is such hymns as Kipling's "Recessional" which must keep the children, too, from forgetting.

It is generally felt that the week just finished has been a most delightful and profitable one. The keen and invigorating personality of both instructors, Miss Sutherland and Superintendent Van Cleve, has been indelibly impressed upon the hearts and minds of every Newark teacher, and the road gained from such delightful intercourse cannot by any standard, be measured.

Both these instructors can be assured of enthusiastic welcome when duty or pleasure may again call them back to Newark.

THE X-RAY PHYSICIANS

COMING TO NEWARK, OHIO, HOTEL WARDEN, WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 12

From 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. One Day Only.

The X-Ray Physicians offer you the opportunity to learn without cost how you may be made well. Consultation, Examination and Advice FREE TO ALL, calling at the Hotel on the above date. Dr. J. J. Travis, the Noted Specialist, will be in charge, and give each patient his personal attention.

We have treated and examined more than 2,500 people in the last year. Come and be examined and find out what your trouble is, and we will advise you as to a cure. The examination and treatment are entirely harmless and painless, and free from inconvenience or embarrassment. The patient usually does not need to remove his clothing for examination or treatment.

Deafness, Head and Ear Noises.

Our system of Treatment for Deafness and the troubles which accompany it is not only effective but absolutely free from pain. No disagreeable instruments are usually necessary, as the inner tubes which become blocked up and cause the ringing, buzzing sounds and impair the hearing faculty, open up and to the pleasant vapor medications, and the tubes of the ears are restored to elasticity by a pleasant electrical massage. The disagreeable noises are then quickly stopped by massage of the ear drum and a mild current of electricity passed into the internal chambers of the ears. Those who have been tortured unsuccessfully in the past are invited to try a new and scientific system which will give immediate relief and a positive cure.

Catarrh of the Head and Throat.

Foul breath spitting slime and mucous scabs and scales forming in the nose, pain in the head, dizziness, impaired smell or taste dropping in the throat are easily overcome and cured by Our Treatment.

Catarrh of the Bronchial Tubes.

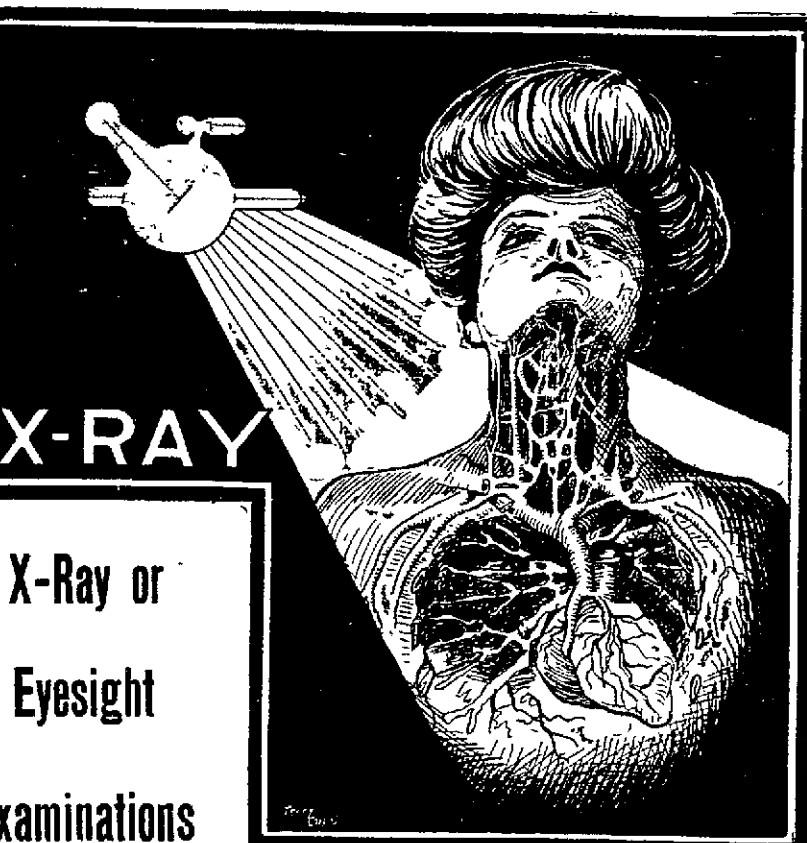

Cough loss of flesh, pain in the sides, frothy or yellow sputum, shortness of breath, depressed spirits, pain under shoulder blades, night sweats—all forerunners of consumption are quickly suppressed by the inhalation and special medication at the X-Ray Medical Institute.

Consumption.

No gem can lie when it comes in contact with our treatment. The treatment acts also as a preventive when used by persons having weak lungs or acute nose, throat or bronchial affection.

Our system of treatment bathes the linings of all these organs and it prevents the consumption germ, which may be in the air from lodging and implanting itself in the sensitive tissues. Catarrh is thus prevented from extending into the throat or tubes, where it first begins.

DO NOT SELECT CASCARETS, because it is the forerunner of serious throat and lung diseases. IT CAN BE CURED

Nervous Trouble.

M. O. Bartholomew, 52 Halsey Street, Newark, has been very weak caused through nervousness, causing a twitching of the eyes as well as my whole nervous system, my eye-sight being very much impaired thereby. I have been under the care of the X-Ray Doctors and have taken their treatment for two months and find that my eyes are strong and the twitching all gone. My nerve trouble is as well as ever and my nervousness has entirely left me, and I can say that I recommend these X-Ray Specialists to all who may be afflicted as I was. Will gladly answer any inquiries.

Also Piles, Fistula, Rupture, Hydrocele, Skin Diseases, Lost Manhood, Manly Decline and Diseases of the Kidneys, Bladder and Prostate.

Cancer Cured.

Mrs. G. Edwards, Mineral City, Ohio, says: "For the benefit of those suffering with Cancer I wish to say that I placed myself under treatment with the X-Ray Specialists on April 12th, 1906, for the treatment of cancer on my nose, and in less than one month they have cured me. I have never had a relapse, nor would the treatment be known. I did not get the treatment, I did not have any slight side effects, but now, only a slight scar can be seen due to the X-Ray Doctor. I shall be glad to answer any inquiries."

PERSONAL ITEM
IN A NEWSPAPER

Finds Lost Man in Far Pacific—Mr. Parker Ran Away From Home When a Boy.

New York, Sept. 8.—"Wanted—if alive, present address of Captain Edwin H. Parker, of Popham: last heard from in June, 1897; then with the Inter-Island Steam Navigation company, Honolulu, H. I. Pacific coast and Honolulu papers please copy. J. Smart, room 54, No. 29 Broadway, New York city."

This advertisement was inserted in the personal column of a New York

Captain Edwin H. Parker

paper on July 25, 1906, by G. H. Popham. His aged mother had come to New York from Mexico City to make renewed efforts to find her son.

Word has just been received from Honolulu that the missing Captain Edwin H. Parker had probably been found through the advertisement. A man who bears his name and is a sea captain, when shown the advertisement recently in Honolulu, made this statement:

"My father's name was Parker. When I was three years old my mother married a Mr. Popham, and when I left home I took the name of Parker. I communicated with my family up to 1897, when a letter to my half brother, at Kansas City, was returned to me by the post office officials. Since then I have not written. I think that my mother desires to communicate with me to settle my father's estate which is worth from $50,000 to $100,000, and the bulk of it will come to me. I have instructed A. G. M. Robertson to take up the matter in my interest."

Captain Parker ran away from home and went to sea when a boy.

SIMPLIFIED SPELLING

Eight hundred and twenty-five college presidents and professors have agreed to use the simplified spelling of three hundred words proposed by the board and adopted by the president. Among these are a number of Ohio educators: Dr. R. S. Colwell, of Denison university, Granville; Dr. S. F. Scovel, of Wooster; President Bookwalter of Otterbein; Professor J. H. Beal of Seio; President H. C. King of Oberlin; Professor John W. Rice of Ohio Wesleyan; Professor David R. Major of Ohio State; Professor Henry H. Lane of Hiram; Professor Harris Hancock of the University of Cincinnati; Professor Oscar Christman of Athens; Dr. Lillian W. Johnson of the Western College for Women; Professor Jonas O. Nostein of Wooster, and Supt. J. D. Simkins of the Newark public schools.

PROWLER

Used Insulting Language When Mrs. Vanatta Called for Help—The Fellow Got Away.

For several nights the police have been on the watch for a prowler who has been frightening women in the Woodside addition in the northwest part of the city. About midnight on Thursday, Mrs. A. R. Vanatta, who was alone with her two little children at her home, 254 Woods avenue, was awoken by a noise in front of the house, and in a few minutes she was terrified at seeing a man at work on her bed room window, endeavoring to gain entrance to the house. She made a noise in the hope that the fellow would be frightened and leave the place. He however, seemed to be aware that she was alone, and gave utterance to the most foul language. Mrs. Vanatta, who was badly frightened by this time, sprang from her bed and running to the window, began screaming for assistance. Several of the neighbors hurried to the scene, among them being Mr. Mason, who was armed with a shotgun. The prowler, however, had vanished, and no trace of him could be found.

A Scientific Wonder.

The cures that stand to its credit make Buckner's Arnica Salve a scientific wonder. It cured E. R. Mulford, lecturer for the Patrons of Husbandry, Waynesboro, Pa., of a distressing case of piles; it heals the worst burns, sores, boils, ulcers, cuts, wounds, chilblains and scurvy. Only 25¢ at F. D. Hall's drug store.

SICK MAN IS CARRIED FROM BURNING HOUSE

Wife and Child Convey Him Half a Mile to Neighbor's Home While the House Burns.

Zanesville, Sept. 8.—The home of Elmer Campbell of near Norwich, was burned to the ground yesterday. Mr. Campbell was ill in bed with typhoid fever and the only other persons in the house were his wife and small son. However they succeeded in getting him out of the house and carried him a half mile to a neighbor's home. The loss to house and contents was $1800.

REV. CLAUDE BOYER

Former Granville Student Leaves Next Week for Chicago to Complete University Training.

Zanesville, Sept. 8.—The services at the First Baptist church on Sunday will be the last to be conducted by Rev. Claude E. Boyer, who has been serving as pastor of the church during the summer. Mr. Boyer came here from Denison university at Granville, from which he graduated this summer.

During his pastorate in this city Mr. Boyer has made many friends. He has also assisted greatly in the upbuilding of the church and at the present time the membership and finances of the church are better than they have been for many months.

Mr. Boyer leaves here next week to enter Chicago university at Chicago, where he will complete his college training. Mr. Boyer returned home yesterday from Homer, O., where he was witness to the marriage of Miss Addie Wright and Mr. Clyde Lauterbaugh. Both are college friends of Rev. Mr. Boyer.

TROLLEY LINE
MT. VERNON NORTH

MANSFIELD ROAD HAS BACKING OF SOME PEOPLE WHO WILL MAKE IT GO.

Road Would Connect With Proposed Line Between Newark and Mt. Vernon.

Mansfield, Sept. 8.—The Mansfield and Mt. Vernon street railroad line project is being revived by G. A. Bartholomew, Thomas W. Latham, a Cleveland banker, and some other capitalists of good standing.

These people have confidence that an electric road through such a good section of the country would pay. The confidence is based on the average population per mile of road along the line.

The road will be incorporated as the Mansfield and Southern traction line. The B. and O. distance to Mt. Vernon of 27 miles it is believed by the projectors can be shortened some, at the same time taking in the towns of Lexington, Bellville, Butler and Fredericktown. Persons of means at Mt. Vernon and at each of the towns have expressed their perfect willingness and ability to carry out any obligations made by the promoters.
